New Curling Rink Is A Grand Building

Still Await Arrival of Roofing Paper; Pipe
Line Almost Completed.

The new curling rink is certainly a magnificent building and one that will ever be to the credit of that little band of volunteer workers who stayed with the job despite the lack of help from club members as a whole.

It is a massive and strongly built arena, housing four sheets of ice. It has been built in such a manner that posts are eliminated between sheets two and three. The lighting system is such that the sheets should have brilliant illumination. A walk has been constructed around the four sheets, giving spectators the opportunity of following any game they wish. The dressing room is quite spacious and has the numerous small windows to allow spectators to enjoy the warmth of the dressing room and still watch the games.

The roofing paper was expected to arrive on Wednesday, but had failed to do so. However, there is still the chance of it arriving for the week end, when a gang of men will be needed to put it on. It is expected to be a four or five-day job.

The ditches for the pipe line have been dug and the water should be installed within the next few days. Stuart Murdoch has been working on the lighting system and has his work well advanced.

Twenty-two million dollars to the Seventh Victory Loan. This brings the total of Canadian government bonds to nearly two hundred million dollars. Mr. Wood, the president, expresses great satisfaction that funds arising out of the savings of the Sun Life policyholders throughout the Dominion has made possible this fine contribution to the war effort and with victory in sight, it is essential to apply our best strength and resources to complete the formidable task without a day being lost. Sun Life holdings of the United Nations now total over half a billion dollars.

PICTURES OF MEMBERS OF ARMED SERVICES WANTED

The Journal is preparing material for its Christmas issue and desire to secure as many pictures as possible of Coleman men and women now serving in the armed forces. It is planned to feature the soldiers, sailors and airmen on two or more pages.

However, we must impress on those persons having pictures that we should have them without delay. It requires two weeks for the engraving and the Christmas issue will be published in five weeks time.

Many More Blood Donors Required

Less Than 100 Names Have Been Secured; Only Two Weeks Remaining to Secure Another 200.

Unless more volunteers come forward and list their names at the blood donors' depot at the Journal-Coleman Hardware and with Miss A. Yuill, it is quite possible that the Red Cross blood clinic will not visit Coleman.

Clinic officials stated that there must be between 255 to 300 donors in order to make the visit worthwhile. Local Red Cross officials assured, however, that 300 donors would be secured. After two weeks campaigning the local sponsors are still working on their first hundred names, with two hundred still to go. Volunteers must come forward more readily if Coleman is to have the clinic visit here.

There is nothing to be gained by withholding your name till the last minute. It is now that your name should be listed in order that the committee can record the campaign's progress.

Giving is painless. Competent doctors and nurses are at your side while you are giving blood and keep careful check on the amount of blood you are capable of donating.

VIOLET WILSON IN BELGIUM
A letter has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson from their daughter Violet, informing them that she is now serving in Belgium.

Violet left Coleman a number of years ago and secured employment in England with Lever Brothers. After the outbreak of war she enlisted with the CWAC in England, and has served with that Canadian unit for more than a year.

$153,150 In Bond Subscriptions Makes All Time Record For Coleman In Loan Investments

All Zones Showed Marked Increase in Subscriptions Over Past Loans; Record Set in Number of Applications.

Another Victory Loan has come to a successful conclusion in the Dominion, the province and right here in Coleman. In all three classes the loan broke all previous records.

The grand total of $153,150 for Coleman is a remarkable and most gratifying figure, both to the local War Finance committee and to the citizens as a whole. All zones showed substantial increases from past loans and the canvassers report that their work in selling the bonds was not as difficult as in past loans. The number of applications hovers around the 820 figure, this compared to 611 in the sixth loan, which up till the present was the greatest number obtained.

Here are the zone results:

Zone	Salesmen	Amount
2nd St. West Sentinel Lime Kiln Graftonwood	MacNeill Meronik	$39,310
1, 2, 3, 4 Streets Blairmore Ave. E.	Chalmers Richards	34,510

"Teen Towners" To Organize In Coleman

Desire a Little Help to Get Started; Ask Support of Local Organizations.

A group of "teen-aged" boys and girls are trying to organize in Coleman. They are calling themselves Teen Timers and their group Teen Town. They plan on meeting at regular intervals for social enjoyment and for the enjoyment of each other's company.

A letter has been received by the Lions, asking that club's co-operation in securing a suitable recreational hall, which would be available to them at all times. They call upon other local organizations to throw their influence behind the Lions and make it possible to secure such a hall.

The most pleasing feature about the whole thing is that the youngsters themselves should come forward and say we want a club of this kind, and not wait for some adult group to do it for them. This is a club among the youth of the town.

It is to be hoped that local organizations will take sufficient interest in this group to get it properly organized and functioning. The main item is the securing of a suitable hall. Here once again the eyes of those men interested in the youth of the town turn to the air schools which are disbanding and now have buildings that may be just ideal for such a group as may organize here.

SPORTS ASSOCIATION ENGAGE ICE MAKERS

It was announced this week that G. Bydens and Charlie Rayman have been engaged by the Sports Association to make ice for the skating rink, open air rink and curling rink for this winter. Mr. Rayman is busy this week cleaning the open air rink of debris. Mr. Bydens, at present employed by the town, commenced his duties on November 15. Both men will combine to get the big skating rink into shape for flooding.

To Whom It May Concern

Statements have been made by irresponsible persons that my father, an inmate of the Provincial Mental Hospital, had mentally improved and his condition is such that he could be allowed home.

Embarrassment has been caused my family as the result of these statements and enquiry has been made to the medical superintendent as to my father's actual mental condition. The following letter has been received:

Mr. Joe Alampi,
Coleman, Alberta.

Dear Sir:
In reply to your letter, I regret to state that despite the reports which you have heard, there has been no recent change or improvement in your father's mental condition. He is up and around and in the same physical condition as when admitted.

Mentally, he still has many very peculiar ideas and beliefs, as he did when he came here.

If you do not wish anyone except yourself and other close relatives to visit him, we should be glad to give instructions that no visitors be allowed to see him, without written permission from members of the immediate family.

Yours very truly,
Randall R. McLean,
Medical Superintendent.

Coleman Needs A Public Library, State Students

(Contributed by High School Students)

This is a question we would like to put to the Coleman people, as we think it is a very important one.

During the last school term two social studies one students undertook the responsibility of obtaining information regarding this problem.

Knowing that the town of Blairmore was able to operate a library successfully, we find there is no reason why a town the size of Coleman cannot follow its example.

The Blairmore local company supplies the library with free rent, fuel and light, and further outside help is obtained by the town retaining taxes. The library is operated by voluntary help and this is where high school girls play a prominent part.

The library board is made up of six or eight members, whose policy it is to purchase the best of the new books or publications.

The annual fee is $1 per adult. This membership entitles the holder to works of fiction, one junior book and one non-fiction book each time the library is open.

From the University Extension library, we, social studies one students, obtained the following statements:

1. The ratepayers' willingness for this purpose will depend on the type of library to be organized.

2. If the community is not willing to be taxed the council may grant a grant towards the buying of books as well as providing a room, heat and light.

3. If this is not granted organizations of the town may help in supporting the library. For example the Blairmore Elks have taken over the entire sponsorship of the Blairmore library.

The government grants only on the amount spent on books and periodicals bought. That is, for each dollar spent by the local library board the government spends a dollar, too.

The choice of the librarian will depend on various factors:

1. How much the librarian is going to be paid? This will in turn depend partly on:

(a) How often the library is to be open during the week.

(b) If the town wants a trained librarian or local help.

We may be able to manage the way Blairmore does.

Now that the plans are being made for the new hospital, we think a suitable location for this library should be in the present hospital building.

We have placed the facts before you, Citizens of Coleman. The question to decide now is: Should the town the size of Coleman be without a public library?

We are presenting our findings to the Coleman town council for their consideration on this matter.

Dickey Speaks To Lions On Tuberculosis

Is Hopeful That Mobile T. B. Unit May Visit Pass Next Summer; Urges Greater Support for Christmas T. B. Seals.

The Lions Club was honored at the regular super-meeting, on Tuesday by a visit from Robert Dickey, general secretary of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, who gave a talk on the importance of tuberculosis work in the province and appealed for greater support for the Christmas T. B. Seals, which are distributed throughout the province.

The Tuberculosis Association has donated a second mobile T. B. X-ray unit to the provincial Department of Health, and he stated that in future one unit would be maintained in the north and the second in the south.

During the question period he was asked if he could not prevail upon the powers-that-be to have the unit visit the Pass towns. He replied that the Pass had often been discussed, but that since there had only been one unit up till the present, they had been unable to bring it here. However, it was his belief that the unit might be brought to The Pass during next summer.

A full report of his address will appear at a later date.

Remembrance Day Service Held Here

S. C. Short Was Main Speaker;
J. J. McIntyre Was Chairman

The public service held on Nov. 11 in the Miners' Union hall was planned and directed by the local branch of the Canadian Legion. Mr. J. J. McIntyre, mine manager, was chairman of the gathering. The choir of the United church, directed by Mr. James Cousens, sang the anthem, "A Song of Hope and Peace," and led in the worship of song. The officers of the Canadian Army and the ministers of the Church of England and of the United church took a part in the service. Mr. S. C. Short sounded "Last Post" and "Reveille." The two minutes' silence was observed at 11 o'clock, and Mr. W. H. Garner placed the wreath and read the names of the fallen. The impressive salute by Allied flags was directed by P. L. Harold Houghton.

Mr. Sid. Short, who gave the address of the day, commenced by repeating "In Flanders Fields," and based his remarks upon the appeal of that poem, composed by Lieut.-Colonel John McCrae. Mr. Short stressed the fact that the sixty thousand sons of Canada who fell in the first World War were peace-loving men gathered from the farm, the forest and the mines of our country; no lovers of strife were they, but lovers of freedom, both for themselves and for their fellow man. In their supreme sacrifice they did demonstrate to all that even a "Scrap of Paper" is sacred when it represents the pledged word of our Empire.

"We were in that struggle," said the speaker, "just as now, to crush out the vilest and most vicious scheme ever conceived in the mind of man—plot to rule the whole world; first, it would seem, just for the military satisfaction of being able to do it . . . and secondly, to live off the fat of the land as overseers, ruling folk, while the rest of the world pay tribute as slaves."

"Today's generation has also fallen. They are now all as one with those warriors of a former generation and as one they lay their plea at our feet . . . 'if ye break faith with us who die, we shall not sleep.'"

Let us see that we do not break faith. Let us seek out and subdue all those evil emotions which man against man; let us beseech the Almighty to so guide the course of our lives that we can live in authority, to the end that conditions leading to war among nations be corrected."

The speaker concluded his address with an appeal for kindly tolerance toward the "returned man" whose temper may, perhaps, be warped even more than his by the horrors of war through which he has passed.

"If ye break faith . . . we shall not sleep." Surely one of the meanings we can read into this plea is to honor the living comrades of those who died, by giving them every opportunity and consideration we can; by doing all we can to contribute and bring to fruition this brave New World for which we have been fighting.

Let us be able to send our message through the vast expanse of the heavens to that great silent host; the host to whose memory we say this day solemn tribute.

"Slender, well, heroic souls, in silence sleep, Lapped in the circling arms of kindly Death."

No ill can vex your slumbers, No foul breath of Slander, hate, derision, mar the deep Repose that holds you close."

Local Overseas Soldiers Sent 600 Cigarettes Each

Legion Has Also Sent Each
Member Overseas a Christmas
Letter; Union Contributes 300 Cigarettes Each.

This week each Coleman man and woman serving with Canada's army overseas has been sent a Christmas gift of 600 cigarettes. The gift is the result of the Overseas Welfare Fund and the local Miners' Union coming together to send 300 cigarettes each for a total of 600 cigarettes to each man and woman. This 600-cigarette gift has been sent during the past several years. Christmas time is and is sincerely appreciated by the fellows overseas.

In addition to the cigarette gift a Christmas card, sent by post, has been sent by the Canadian Legion. In it they are wished a Merry Christmas, a Happy New Year, the best luck and a quick and happy homecoming.

Health And Education

"A NATION'S HEALTH IS A NATION'S WEALTH" is a familiar slogan which has also been proven to be a fundamental truth. Early in the war, it was realized that health was of the greatest importance in obtaining the maximum efficiency both in the armed forces and in industry. Consequently there was a general awakening to the problems of public health and nutrition. Since that time much has been done to stimulate public interest in these subjects, some parts of Canada being much in advance of others in this field. The Western Prairies have always been well in the lead in matters of health and have achieved splendid results in the control of tuberculosis, which represents only one line of endeavour. Similar progress has been made in other branches of public health and there is evidence that there is to be continued advancement in this direction.

Many Facilities Provided Here

In Canada there are many facilities for the protection of public health and for education in this important subject. Each municipal and provincial government has a public health department, and in addition there are the services of the Department of Pensions and National Health in the Dominion Government. All these agencies have on their staffs, workers trained to deal with health problems, and they make a valuable contribution to the welfare of the nation. It is apparent, however, that there is still much to be done if we are to attain to the high standard of health which should be possible to a country such as this. In a recent survey report on the chief educational needs in the Dominion, issued by the Canada and Newfoundland Education Association, it was suggested that the schools might extend the part they now play in maintaining and advancing public health.

Schools Could Extend Program

It is granted, in the report, that in almost all schools there is a program of health education and that there is usually a generous time allowance for such studies. It suggests, however, that this training is not always put into practice and that further supervision and instruction is needed to secure satisfactory results. Poorly ventilated and badly constructed school buildings in many districts contribute to a low standard of health among the pupils. In addition, adequate nutrition, as essential to the development of alert minds as well as sound bodies, is often found lacking among school children. This may be due to ignorance of nutritional values in the home, or to inability on the part of parents to provide the necessary foods. The schools could assist in these circumstances through education and by the provision of wholesome school lunches. Dental care for children is another important branch of health which could be given greater stimulus in many schools according to the opinion of those educationalists who prepared the report. Many communities are well advanced in all these lines, but those who are not, could look forward to extending the services of their schools towards a higher standard of public health.

If Award Means Anything London Has Earned One

According to an unconfirmed report, the mayors of several British cities headed by the Lord Provost of Edinburgh have suggested that the George Cross be awarded to the City of London, as that decoration was given the Island of Malta for its gallant resistance to many months of constant air attack and semi-starvation.

No suggested recognition of gallantry in war could meet with more immediate and general approval than this. Almost from the first days of the war, London has been "in it" to a greater extent than any other city in the empire, and from the first days of the war until today the magnificent courage of London has been an inspiration, not only to all other British cities but to the whole world. From the blitz of 1940-41 to the later visitation of the robot bomb, London has "taken it" with a combination of wry-lipped humor and grim fortitude that has stiffened the courage of every one of us.

The George Cross? London should have a dozen George Crosses if a dozen meant more than one. Every city in the Commonwealth would welcome the chance of participating in some way, if such were possible, in an expression of the warmest admiration of the magnificent record of London in the dark days that are passing now.—Montreal Star.

Sympathy And Understanding Can Smooth Way For Soldier's Wives

They (British-born wives of Canadian soldiers) are here and we hope here for life. They are accepted as belonging to us now, new members of our community and gradually to become Canadians in thought and in the eyes of the law. We must not expect the settling down process to be entirely without its difficulties; but if we now follow up the welcome with tactful and cordial extension of the aid offered to them, we may be able to help them over the period of adjustment. They come with customs and ideas that are fundamentally the same as our own, but differing in little details. Let us remember how trifles are apt to assume terrible importance, especially under the influence of perfectly natural homesickness. Sympathy and understanding can smooth the path of these new Canadians.—Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

Key To Bastille

Original Key Sent To America In The Early Days

One of the most interesting incidents in the General's stay was his visit to the Washington Museum where he was shown the original key of the Bastille.

This relic was sent to America in the early days of the nineteenth century by the Municipality of Paris. In the course of his tour of inspection, the General placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, which stands in the Arlington National Cemetery, and paid a visit of pious homage to the tomb of Lafayette.

He also called upon General Pershing, who commanded the American armies in France during the last war.—Tricolour, London.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Must I surrender ration coupons when buying frozen fruit?

A.—Frozen fruit is not rationed and you will not have to surrender any of your preserves coupons.

Q.—I think I am paying more than

Q.—Yes, all stores selling meats must display a chart showing the various cuts of beef, lamb and veal and the price of those cuts per pound. If you are still in doubt as to whether or not the price you are paying is too high have your butcher mark the type of cut and the price per pound on your bill and report this to the food division of your Wartime Prices and Trade Board office. The matter will be investigated for you.

Q.—Permission has been given me to start up in a business from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. I believe I have to have prices set on the merchandise I am going to buy. Is this right?

A.—Maximum selling prices in some cases are set on to you by the supplier from whom you buy your merchandise. In other cases they are not. If the latter happens, you had better contact the office of the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board and they will advise you what to do, and if the setting of ceiling prices is necessary they will give you the necessary information.

Q.—Would you please send me a copy of your booklet "Remake Wrinkles"? I am mostly interested in children's clothing.

A.—Yes, "Remake Wrinkles" has been sent to you. It's easy to remodel children's clothes from discarded grown-up garments if you know the short cuts. Any woman can quickly learn to make her children's clothing smart and good-looking. "Remake Wrinkles" contains practical suggestions and designs for remodelling clothes for all the family.

Rivets In Superforts Not Affected

By Heat Or Cold

The stifling heat over airfields in the interior of China or the sub-zero temperatures of the stratosphere will not undo the "seams" of the B-29 Superfortress.

Each of the 1,100,000 rivets which play vital roles in "stitching" one Superfort together goes through a command-like course before it is eligible to become a part of the great plane.

Boeing Aircraft Co., engineers first heat-treat the rivets in a terrifically hot salt bath. Then they are doused in icy water and soaked in a bath of alcohol methanol.

Huge, freezing cabinets serve as central "banks" for the rivets, which are paraded out to refrigerating substations in the various Boeing shops for use by riveters.

If the parts are needed in the various Boeing branch plants throughout Washington, the lowly rivets are packed royally in dry ice and rushed by truck from the main Seattle plants.

After this stiff training the rivets in the completed Superforts are tough, hard, and indifferent to climatic changes.

Will Be Great Help

Television Is Seen As New Aid In Detecting Crime

Many new and effective law enforcement methods will be used after World War II, according to Frank J. Wilson, chief of the U.S. secret service.

Wilson, in an address before the International Association of Chiefs of Police, said: "New postwar crime problems will face the nation, and criminals will emerge with new tricks for cheating the public, but the new tricks will not be confined in the underworld."

Pointing out that a few years ago prominent police officials thought the two-way radio telephones in police cars "fantastic," Wilson said that tomorrow it will be television which will help us stop the crook.

"With television," he said, "we will be able to flash many pictures of missing persons or dangerous criminals, or expose the tricks of criminals on television screens in the living rooms of millions of people at the same instant."

Furthermore, he asserted, a city police department can set up television cameras at dangerous highway intersections and bring serious traffic problems into the homes of the people to teach them to walk and drive with care.

"A television screen in every home where there is now a radio can do more than anything else to encourage the public to give the police active support in reducing juvenile delinquency and preventing robbery, burglary and other serious crimes," he said.

A New Assignment

Is Being Mapped Out In India For Canada's Airmen

A new assignment for Canada's airmen is being mapped out in India where two transport squadrons are being made up from among Canadians now serving in that theatre with the Royal Air Force. While the reorganization to put the Canadians together may mean little or nothing as far as the immediate operational scheme is concerned, it is a recognition which our fighting men have wanted in nearly every phase of combat. Just what status the R.C.A.F. as such, occupies in the Far East at the moment is veiled by the secrecy which necessarily accompanies the intensification of action there. For a long time, however, there was an important R.C.A.F. squadron flying out of strategic Ceylon. Scattered throughout the India-Burma theatre R.C.A.F. men serving with the R.A.F. have been in the thick of the battle for nearly three years, in fighter, bomber and transport services. When the time comes for a major diversion of some of the R.C.A.F.'s hard-hitting squadrons from the European theatre, the tropic-dipped nucleus for a new Canadian command group will be ready.—Montreal Star.

Coarse Grains

Farmers Should Arrange For Supplies As Soon As Possible

Because coarse grains will likely be moved out of the head of the lakes as soon as shipping restrictions are removed by the Wheat Board, Saskatchewan farmers who depend on the purchase of feed grains for their livestock have been advised in a statement by Hon. L. F. McIntosh, minister of agriculture, to get their requirements as soon as possible. Mr. McIntosh added that all farmers should assure themselves of ample supplies of feed grains until the next crop is harvested. Wheat and flax shipments have been given preference over oats and barley, with the supply of such grains at the lake head sufficient for needs, and at present ceiling prices there is no gain to elevator companies in holding coarse grains in store.

An Old Custom

Indians Proposed Marriage By Sending Cocoa To Girl's Home

In Honduras the traditional wedding drink is chocolate, reports the Minneapolis Star Journal. The custom goes back to pre-Columbus days, when it was customary for an Indian youth to propose marriage by sending a matron to the girl's home with a gift of enough cocoa for a feast. If the girl accepted the present she meant "yes." Then by way of a marriage announcement, she sent back enough cocoa for two parties, one at his home and one at the home of her relatives. From this two-for-one custom grew the question, "When will you be serving chocolate?" Meaning, "When will you be married?"

"Goodness! Can't we afford a flag?"

"Darling, you're looking prettier every day."

"Then why do you want to marry me so soon. Why not wait if that's the case?"

"I don't like the looks of that halibut," said the lady customer.

"Lady, if it's looks you're after, why not buy a goldfish?" asked the market man.

Mary had a little lamb—
You've heard this oft before—
And then she passed her plate again
And had a little more.

"Did your garden do well last summer?"

"No. Every time my husband started digging he found a lot of worms; so he would quit and go fishing."

"Have you really shown me everything you have in the shop?"

"Not quite, madam. We have an overdue account of yours on our books, if you would care to see it?"

Tom—My father was a great western politician in his day.

Thumb—What did he run for?

Tom—The border.

A milkman, inducted into the army, wrote back home from camp: "Beeslie, I sure do like this army life. It's nice to lie abed every morning until 5:30."

When Jones' little girl was born, She set their hearts aflutter; They named her Oleomargarine, For they hadn't any but her.

Wife—Do you realize that 25 years ago today we became engaged?

The Absent-Minded Professor— Twenty-five years! You should have reminded me before. It's certainly time we got married.

Teacher—What is a hypocrite? Jim—A boy who comes to school smiling.

"I once loved a girl who made a complete fool of me."

"What a lasting impression some girls make."

"I'm proud to say I'm a self-made man."

"You're lucky. 'I'm the revised work of a wife and three daughters."

"If I were a dictator I would give 365 holidays a year."
"Don't be a fool—then we should have to work a whole day every four years."

Battle Of London

Hundreds Of Thousands Of Homes Are Destroyed

The Battle of London has been no side-show. If she had wavered, then the British of a Thousand Years might have become a reality. Our losses alone reveal what we have suffered: 60,000 citizens of London have been killed; more than 100,000 wounded; while few among us have escaped the onslaught without some loss or injury.

Hundreds of thousands of our homes have been destroyed and wrecked; our treasured possessions blasted and defiled. The heart of our city has been swept by fire; her noblest monuments lie in ruins. There will be no joy-bells rung for the liberation of London; no flowers strewed, nor wine caques broached. It is a fact that the world will accept as calmly as it accepted the fact of our resistance.

The triumphant citizens of London, in the days of her liberation, send their greetings to the men across the Channel. She is shabby and battered, but her heart is warm. She has a welcome waiting for them.—London Evening Standard.

HERE'S MY FEED PROBLEM.

Has feed a definite effect on the health of baby chicks after hatching?

HERE'S THE ANSWER...

One sure way to save baby chicks is to put the best of the necessary food materials inside the hatching egg. Naturally the only way to do this is through the hen. So feed your laying hens "Miracle" Hatching Mash at least two months before you collect the eggs for the incubator. "Miracle" Hatching Mash is tested to give your laying hens perfectly balanced food value. If you have plenty of farm grains, mix your own feed with "Miracle" Hatching Mash Supplement.

HIMMLER SUMMONS GERMANS TO FIGHT ON AGAINST ANY THOUGHT OF CAPITULATION

LONDON.—A proclamation in the name of long-alied Adolf Hitler—but read by the hangman chief, Heinrich Himmler—summoned Germans to fight to the death and promised victory against the Allies who seek Germany's "complete annihilation."

The proclamation asserted surrender would not be a "cheap escape," appealed for loyalty to the Fuehrer, warned that his power is absolute, and declared that "as long as I am alive Germany will not suffer the fate of German states flooded by Bolshevism."

But the voice of Hitler—who has not spoken to his people for nearly four months in the gravest crisis—was not heard which Berlin radio called "a day of national rising."

His silence, since day after the July 20 attempts on his life, has led to reports Hitler is dead, or ill, or mad. His proclamation said only that his work "does not allow me to leave headquarters even for a few days."

The manifesto marked the staging of the Nazis' postponed anniversary celebration of the Nov. 9, 1923, beer hall putch in Munich and mass swearing-in of "millions" of men in the Volkstrum or people's army, pledging fealty to Hitler and unconditional resistance to the Allies.

Himmler, rapidly coming to the fore recently as Germany's strong man, read the proclamation in Munich.

It was Gauleiter Paul Gieseler, and not Hitler, who placed the traditional wreath on the monument to the 16 who died in the unsuccessful putch 21 years ago. Hitler's proclamation, as broadcast from that Nazi shrine, said "I greet you from afar, my party comrades."

In a day of stark fanaticism the Nazi leaders—Hitler by proclamation, Reichs Minister Goebbels and others in personal addresses at Volkstrum ceremonies—sought to pledge Germany virtually to national suicide.

They held up the hara-kari fanaticism of the Japanese as an example for Germans in defence of "our beloved Reich by every home, every street corner, every clump of trees."

All thought of compromise or capitulation was rejected.

"The time of people who favor compromise or reserve has definitely passed," said Hitler's text as broadcast by D.N.B.

"We fight to the last breath," Goebbels told Volkstrumers in Berlin.

Hitler's address struck the old Nazi propaganda chords of the menace of "international Jewry," and Bolshevist barbarism, threatening, he said, to engulf not only Germany, but all Europe.

Death awaits any German who opposes the decision for last-ditch struggle, the proclamation said. "As long as there is breath left in me, my body and soul will serve one thought only: to make my people strong in defence and attack against this deadly danger. If there are people who are objecting to this, it cannot be helped."

"Whoever attempts to sow doubts among others, whoever lifts a sword or throws a bomb against Germany, will be mercilessly and ruthlessly destroyed."

Speaking in Berlin at the swearing-in ceremonies, Reichsminister Goebbels, declaring that "hundreds of thousands of men have volunteered" in Berlin, was quoted by the German radio as saying the regiments would be re-equipped with light and heavy machine guns and be able to "deliver a tank-punch and tank-terror."

POWERFUL SHIP

Canada's Cruiser Uganda Ready To Meet The Enemy

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT.—Canada's most powerful ship of war the cruiser Uganda—has dipped her keel in the water of her adopted homeland for the first time, received the salutes of her fellow fighting craft, and gone off to seek the enemy on the open sea.

Standing like a Titan among the lesser vessels of the Dominion's small ship navy, the 8,000-ton package of punch came here from the United States navy yard where she had been turned over to Canada Oct. 21. She had spent several months in the yard for the repair of war wounds suffered in hot action with the Royal Navy.

But there were no signs of the ravages of battle as the cruiser made her bow to Canada—her 549 feet of fighting power spiky with literally dozens of guns. Jane's fighting ships lists an even dozen six-inchers, plus eight four-inch anti-aircraft weapons and 16 smaller guns.

"She's a good ship," said Cmdr Hugh Pullen of Oakville, Ont., second in command to Capt. E. R. Mainguy aboard the Uganda. "She goes well, and she has a good feel to her."

Most of the 59 officers aboard the big craft are Canadians; a few British officers remain in the engine rooms to familiarize the Canadians with the intricacies of her geared turbine system. The crew of 800 men that the Uganda carries is practically all Canadian, representing every province in the Dominion.

WORKERS NEEDED

Defence Minister Wants More Canadian Women For Shell-Making

OTTAWA.—Defence Minister McNaughton appealed for more Canadian women to take places in the shell filling and assembling plants of Canada's war industries.

Addressing a meeting of the Ottawa command of the Canadian Legion, Gen. McNaughton stressed the need of increasing the output of munitions for the men overseas, and added:

"Much of the work in the filling and assembly plants, and even in the factories where the shells are produced, can best be done by women. They handle the delicate gear with great precision and they have a natural aptitude for many of the operations. We men must admit that in this they are superior to us."

"So what now is required is that more women come forward to undertake this vital work and I appeal to all who can to do so. To those who do I would say you can take the utmost satisfaction in the work you do and its contribution to saving the lives of our men."

WANT PENSION PLAN

TORONTO.—A contributory pension plan throughout the nation, holidays with pay for all classes of labor, labor representation in parliament not tied to any political party, and establishment of new communities, were called for by the newly appointed chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Howard B. Chase, speaking to the Canadian club here.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT FACING TROUBLED FUTURE OF THE U.S. DOMESTIC AND WAR PROBLEMS

NEW YORK.—President Roosevelt now faces the troubled future of the United States domestic and foreign problems freshly armed with an unmistakable expression of his people's confidence in his leadership for another four years.

Belated returns added to the impressiveness of his victory over the Republican candidate, Gov. Dewey of New York, in the presidential elections.

It is expected the president will at once set in motion plans for a early meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin to iron out the unfinished details of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals for a world security organization.

This is necessary as a preliminary to the United Nations conference the American government proposes to call early in 1945 in an effort to bring into being as soon as possible the "United Nations" league for peace and security.

In these activities it is considered probable that Mr. Roosevelt will seek and win the co-operation of Gov. Dewey, who is expected to be no less magnanimous than the late Wendell Willkie who, when defeated by the president in 1940 declared that he was "my president" and proceeded to support the Roosevelt efforts to organize the United States for victory.

VIGOROUS PROTEST

International Red Cross Has Complaint About German Prison Camp

OTTAWA.—The wartime information board reported the International Red Cross has lodged vigorous protests against conditions in Stalag Luft IV, a German prison camp where 147 Canadian airmen are held. There is a total of 7,975 prisoners at the camp and in the last few months 1,400 have been transferred from Stalag Luft VI and from prisons in Wetzlar and Budapest. In the move many of the prisoners lost personal belongings and others had their personal effects confiscated and not returned.

Food is reported to be poor with no provision for prisoners to cook their own food sent in Red Cross parcels. Sanitary arrangements are not satisfactory and some of the prisoners lack adequate clothes. Apart from skin eruptions due to insufficient sanitary arrangements the Red Cross delegate reported the general health of the prisoners to be good.

Mail being sent to prisoners of war in Europe has increased 16 per cent compared with last year, the wartime information board reported.

NEW PROGRAM

General McNaughton Outlines Plan For Home Defence Army Pay

OTTAWA.—As a result of a program outlined by Defence Minister McNaughton, the men in Canada's home defence army will receive only the pay of their rank as long as they remain outside of active service ranks.

Under Gen. McNaughton's program, the draftees—dubbed zombies—will not be allowed to obtain extra remuneration by working on construction projects, by helping to gather crops or by working in the mines and in the woods.

Under an order-in-council made public recently, active and home defence personnel in Canada, not actively engaged in military duties, were permitted to accept employment in essential industry pending recall to duty.

The general indicated that the order would not be changed as far as active service personnel were concerned. He also indicated that low category men among the draftees might be allowed to help with essential projects but would not receive any extra remuneration.

SUPPLIES FOR GREECE

Almost 3,000 Tons Are Being Unloaded A Day

LONDON.—Foreign Secretary Eden reported to the House of Commons that the Greek port of Piraeus has "been got to work again in part at least" and said this was due to the most strenuous efforts by the Royal Navy and the Royal Engineers and of the civilian population in the Piraeus.

"By the end of October we had reached a figure of supplies unloaded in Piraeus alone of almost 3,000 tons a day," he told the house in a report on his visit to Greece.

The foreign secretary informed the house, too, that he did not believe "informed opinion yet fully understands how complete, how merciless how dastardly has been the devastation inflicted by the German armies in Allied lands as they are compelled to withdraw."

CONVOY ATTACKED

Flotilla Of Canadian Torpedo Boats Destroys German Ship

A BRITISH PORT.—A large German merchant vessel was destroyed and an E-boat set afire by the 20th Canadian flotilla of motor torpedo boats in a blazing 10-hour action off the Netherlands coast recently, it was announced.

A heavily-escorted German convoy was sighted off the hook of Holland just after dark on Nov. 1 by a flotilla unit. A 3,000-ton merchant vessel and a barge towed by a tug was escorted by several trawlers, armed coasters, four minesweepers and eight E-boats.

During the action the Canadian force suffered only two casualties. After several exchanges of gun fire the convoy turned and fled.

GERMAN CASUALTIES

Over Two Million Reported In The Last Six Months

NEW YORK.—Germany has suffered at least 2,004,000 casualties in the last half year, official statements from the eastern, western and southern fronts disclosed. Actual enemy losses may be a great deal higher.

Official Allied sources listed these German casualties between May and November: Russia, 790,000; western front, 1,060,000; Italy, 194,000; total, 2,044,000.

VISITORS TO CANADA

OTTAWA.—A South African delegation of five members in Canada to discuss supply and trade matters visited Ottawa under auspices of the trade department to ascertain what supplies it can obtain in Canada for the South African reconstruction period.

RETURNING HOME

LONDON.—The corps of Canadian firefighters, 400 strong, who came voluntarily in 1942 to fight blizzards in Britain, parted for the last time to hear an official farewell from a British that was thankful for their aid. Shortly, the firefighters are due to sail for Canada.

NEWSPAPER TRIBUTE

BALTIMORE.—The Baltimore Sun paid editorial tribute to the fighting men from Canada, noting that the important news from the western front in the last few days has been made by Canadian and British armies in Holland.

CANADIAN GRAINS ARE BEING ABSORBED INTO MARKET AT 50,000,000 BUSHELS A MONTH

REGINA.—Canadian grains are being absorbed into the market at the rate of 50 million bushels per month, indicating a grain disappearance for the present crop year of 600 million bushels, George McIvor, chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board, told delegates in session at the 20th annual meeting of Saskatchewan Co-operative Producers Limited here.

He stated that for the first three months of the crop year 1943-44 the railways moved 132 million bushels of grain out of country elevators, but in spite of this movement there was still a critical situation at the lakehead because of the inability to get sufficient grain down to the terminals before navigation closes, to meet the winter demand.

Mr. McIvor remarked that there would be insufficient wheat in Australia to fill requirements in the Pacific area, due to severe drought, and that as a result it was not unlikely that Canadian wheat would have to move to the far east to supplement Australian supplies, and that such need would probably be great in India.

While this indicated an increased market for Canadian wheat, Mr. McIvor warned that it could not be assumed the present high demand for Canadian wheat would continue.

He said that for the crop year 1943-44 the United States took 100 million bushels of Canadian wheat and is still taking Canadian wheat.

"We do not know the quantity of wheat that the Americans will require in 1944-45 but to maintain the same volume of exports as last year, we will have to have compensating markets in Europe and elsewhere for any reduction in United States imports," he said.

Legion Appeals To Citizens To Support Blood Clinic

Is it possible that we, the people of Coleman, do not care what becomes of our sons and daughters who have gone forward to the fighting lines in Europe to defend that which we hold so dear? Or is it that we have not the time to come forward and volunteer as they did for a cause that is equally as essential?

The Blood Donor Clinic will open to Coleman on Dec. 5, 6 and 7 if we have 300 names of men and women who will donate a pint of their blood. Do you realize the blood that you donate might possibly be the very pint that may save the life of your son or daughter or some other relative you may now have in the theatre of war? Come on, citizens of Coleman, do not let it be said we let our boys down. Turn in your names now to The Journal Office, Coleman Hardware or Miss A. Yuill.

Life Insurance Companies Invest Heavily In Bonds

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Life insurance companies in Canada have passed the billion-dollar mark in their investments in Canadian war loan and victory loan campaigns since the war began, it was announced today by M. J. Smith, president of the Canadian Life Insurance Association.

In the Seventh Victory Loan campaign just completed, said Mr. Smith, the life insurance companies subscribed close to 170 million dollars. That figure put the companies' total investment in the campaigns since the beginning of the war at $1,120,000,000. "That total," said Mr. Smith, "means that through his or her insurance company, each of the 4,000,000 life insurance policyholders in Canada has invested an average of $280 in the Dominion's war-time bonds, apart from private purchases."

History of Aviation Told in New Picture Produced by Disney
From New York to Pasadena in 51 days, 69 hops and 15 crashes. This is the record of the first transcontinental flight in the story of aviation. The year was 1911, the pilot Calbraith P. Rogers.

Today the sky between New York and the west coast is measured in hours, but for 1911 this prophecy was still in the realm of the fantastic.

Aviation's first transcontinental flight will be reproduced in technicolor animation by Walt Disney as part of his History of Aviation sequence in "Victory Through Air Power," a full-length feature film adapted from Major Alexander P. de Seversky's book of the same name which United Artists brings to the Palace theatre on Wednesday. This sequence, detailing in pictures the evolution of the aeroplane, serves as a prelude to de Seversky's views which are unfolded in live-action and animation.

RECEIVED SOUVENIRS FROM BELGIUM

Harry Drew last week received a pleasant surprise from his son, Jim Drew, in Belgium, when a parcel arrived including a Lisette camera in which was a film bearing pictures of the First Canadian Scottish pipe band and others. Also included was an Iron Cross. Those who have seen this have no doubt that it is the real McCoy. It has the full cross with the swastika in the centre and dated 1939. There is a watch with the words "Remonteur Cylindre Crubis" and Mr. Drew has it going and states it keeps perfect time. There was also an ordinary hanky. All articles were taken from a German pill box which Jim and his comrades wiped out.

A set of binoculars are also on their way.

The Iron Cross contrasts sharply from the Iron Cross which was received some weeks ago by Mrs. Caroe from her son Lorne. That cross had two swords crossed along with the main cross.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS AND THEIR MALE EMPLOYEES—Including Farmers

By an order signed on August 15th, 1944, by the undersigned Minister of Labour under authority of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, 1944:

1. Commencing August 22nd, 1944, every employer is required to check the documents held by each newly engaged male employee, within 7 days of the employee's engagement, to determine if such employee possesses documents to show that he is in good standing under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, 1944 (that is, in relation to the Military Call-up);
2. Every employer must report on Schedule 9 to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division, concerning any employee found not to possess documents as referred to;
3. Every employer is required similarly to check the documents held by each male employee now working for him, whose documents he has not checked before, and to report to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division at once on any such employee found not to possess documents as referred to;
4. Any male employee here referred to, is required by the Regulations to present his documents to his employer for purposes of inspection;
5. FOR THIS PURPOSE "EMPLOYER" INCLUDES ALSO ANY FARMER OPERATING A FARM, WHO HAS A MALE PERSON WORKING FOR HIM;
6. Penalties are provided for any employer or male employee who fails to comply with these Regulations.

By an earlier order, employers were required to check the documents held by their male employees, and to report by May 1st, 1944, on doubtful cases as well as cases where employees did not possess documents.

Employers are asked to remember that they do not report on men who do possess the necessary documents—only on those who fail to present documents for examination, or where there is doubt that the document presented actually proves good standing.

The employers of Canada, including farmers, co-operated very satisfactorily on the first check, made up to May 1st, last. This co-operation was decidedly helpful, and is very much appreciated. Further co-operation is now earnestly requested.

Schedule 9, for reporting to the Registrar, and details as to documents which prove good standing, are available through the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Farmers not needed on the farm during the winter, who answer the urgent call for winter workers in other essential industries, will be given a continuance of postponement of military training well away from the farm.

THEATRE NOTES

At the Palace theatre this week end is the thrilling film, "Watch on the Rhine." It was his performance in this picture that won for Paul Lukas the screen's highest award given an actor in 1943.

The story deals with Paul Lukas, German member of an anti-Fascist movement, who arrives in Wash-ington with his wife (Betty Davis) and their children, to reside with his rich mother-in-law. Among other guests in the house is a Ru-manian count, who loses consider-able sums gambling at the German embassy. Discovering Lukas' es-pionage activities, he blackmails him, forcing Lukas to shoot the Rumanian to death in order to re-turn to his work in Germany.

The worst inflation came AFTER the war the last time... to be followed by disastrous deflation, unemployment and confusion. For Canada to manage successfully the change back to peace, maintain employment, and meet the world's competition... we must continue to have stable economic conditions. To protect the individual from rising costs of living and later unemployment we must continue to prevent inflation.

To prevent a repetition of the conditions following the last war
PRICE CONTROL MUST BE MAINTAINED
AS LONG AS INFLATION THREATENS US.

This can only be done if production is efficient and economical, costs are kept down and consumers refuse to pay more than ceiling prices.

One person can start it!

When one person demands more for goods or services he compels others to do the same and Price Control goes out the window.

CHRISTIANITY AND DEMOCRACY

Golden text: Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ. Galatians 6:2.

Lesson: Micah 6:1-5; Mark 12:13-17; Romans 13:8-10; 1 Peter 2:13-17.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 103:1-5, 8-13.

Explanations and Comments

Our Debt to God and to Country. Mark 12:13-17. Pharisees and Herodians were naturally hot parties. The Herodians were a small political party who were partisans of Herod, and they were cordially hated by most Pharisees. They were united, however, in their desire to get Jesus into trouble with the Roman government, and together they concocted a plot. Each morning of that last week of Jesus' life they met him with questions which they hoped would "catch him in his talk."

The man whom the plotters sent to Jesus on Tuesday of that week prefaced his remarks by saying in effect that the question about to be propounded was a dangerous one to answer, but they knew he was not afraid of consequences. Thus they would flatter him and put him off his guard.

"Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar, or not?" was the question. The tribute that Rome exacted was the poll tax. If Jesus said "yes," he would bitterly antagonize the people, and if he said "No," they could accuse him of treason to the Roman government. And two days later they did falsely declare to Pilate, that "We found this man perverting our nation, and forbidding to give tribute to Caesar." Luke 23:2.

"Why make ye trial of me?" Jesus said to them, well knowing their hypocrisy. The purpose of their flattering introductory words, the evil of their intent. "Bring me a denarius," he then demanded, and they brought it to him. "Whose is the image and superscription?" he asked, and they replied, "Caesar's." Then Jesus said, "Render, give back; the coin came from Caesar, it stood for Rome's services to the people, as well as for Rome's power and authority, and they owed something in return. 'If a king's coin is current in a country,' said the Talmud, 'the men of that country do thereby evidence that they acknowledge him for their lord.' The right of coinage involved the right of taxation."

Then Jesus added "and unto God the things that are God's." Our Debt to Humanity, Romans 13:8-10. "Owe no man anything," Paul counsels, and then makes one all-inclusive exception to this rule, "save to love one another: for he that loveth his neighbor hath fulfilled the law." The Greek word translated "neighbor" is given in the margin of the Bible as "the other." Love is a debt that we owe to humanity.

OUT FOR REVENGE

In a military hospital a visitor saw a badly wounded soldier from one of the Irish regiments. "When are you going to send the man home?" he asked.

"He ain't going home," said the orderly. "He's going back to the front."

"Back to the front," exclaimed the visitor. "But he's in awful shape."

"Yes," replied the orderly, "and he thinks he knows who does it."

From 1875 to 1886 Japan had 658 earthquakes.

Giving Eye To A Check-Up

The health of their employees is the increasing concern of many Canadian employers who have set up medical departments in charge of a physician or registered nurse. Out of six industries in one town, employing from 200 to 700 workers, only one employed a nurse, on a part-time basis, at the beginning of the war. Today these six plants have twelve nurses and three doctors on their payrolls. In the shell filling plant medical department, shown in the picture above, a registered nurse is giving one of the office workers a routine eye check.

THE ART OF LIVING

Modern youth is being fully trained for almost everything except for living, specifically social living. It is stated by Joseph Lichstein in an article in the current issue of New Advance, national Canadian youth magazine. Mr. Lichstein is assistant director, Social Hygiene Division, Health League of Canada.

In his article entitled "Does High School Education Prepare You for Marriage?" Mr. Lichstein, who also is a former chairman of the national health committee of the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce, comments on the emphatic "No" answer given in a recent survey among young Canadians as to whether the high schools are doing a good job in preparing people for marriage.

"Thus the schools are indicted by those most directly concerned, the students, for their failure to provide proper instruction in the most vital field of life, that of social relationship," he says. "Educational administrators as well as parents, teachers and church leaders must assume their share of responsibility for the widespread failure to prepare youth, the trustees of posterity, and the leaders of tomorrow, for the greatest and finest of all arts—the art of living."

Gigantic Repair Task

Many Houses Damaged By Enemy Action In London Area

London has many houses which have been damaged by enemy action. For its area it constitutes the biggest repair problem in the country.

But a damaged house out of commission is a problem wherever it stands—in London, or Dover, or Southampton, or Liverpool or Sheffield, or in some village in Bomb Alley.

The job of getting houses restored to a condition in which people can live in them is a national one. It is the most urgent and immediate part of the whole housing problem of the nation.—London Express.

A Great Traveller

Migration Of Arctic Tern Takes Bird About 24,000 Miles

The champion traveller of the bird world is probably the Arctic tern, a small, white, gull-like bird.

Metal bands have been attached to the legs of nestlings in Labrador and the grown birds recaptured a few months later at the mouth of the Niger River in West Africa and in Natal on the Indian Ocean coast of South Africa—nearly 9,000 miles from Labrador.

And the Arctic tern is round in the Antarctic during our winter. It is well known as a seasonal migrant up and down the western seaboard of both Europe and Africa.

From this it has been inferred that this species migrates from Arctic America across the North Atlantic to Europe, thence down the coast past Africa to the Antarctic Ocean, and back up the same route the following Spring—a distance, in all, of about 24,000 miles, or almost equivalent to the total circumference of the earth.—London Express.

Has Been Success

New Emergency Runway Material Announced By Air Force Engineers

Air Force engineers were glad to announce that they had a new emergency runway material with the essential advantages of steel mats.

It consists of a layer of cloth between two layers of tar-soaked paper. It can be carried in one-tenth the airplane space and laid, by machine, almost twice as fast.

Spread over a roller earth surface, the durable, water-repellent covering sustains the heat and shock of landings with little damage, bogs down only when sub-surface moisture is extreme.

Developed by the Royal Canadian Engineers and improved by U.S. engineers, PBS was tried for the first time by the 9th Air Force last summer, became a vital factor in the remarkable speed of air supply in France.

By Sept. 1 it had been used successfully on some 30 forward fighter and transport fields.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Red Is For Love

— By —
CLIFFORD L. ALDERMAN

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

They were wearing red again this season; Fifth Avenue was flaunting it, bright and brave and challenging, and Janet was wearing it as Martin came face to face with her on the avenue, just as she had that night. . . .

No, time and distance hadn't healed the old wound. It was possible to escape for a while from memories; down out the heart's quiet insistence with bluster. But this was no memory; this was reality. This was Janet.

Martin's heart was saying, "You love her more than you ever did. You can't change that. Not even though you lost her and she married Stewart."

"You've come back, Martin." He might have been gone two weeks instead of two years, the way she said it, but the color had drained from her face.

He nodded. "Three days ago. It's strange, running into you like this, out of all the millions. How's Stewart?"

"Oh, he's fine. They've made him assistant sales manager. He's awfully happy about it."

"Glad to hear it. Give him my regards, won't you?"

There were many things he would have liked to know but he said nothing of them. She must be happy with Stewart; she looked so beautiful.

Janet's eyes were full of unasked questions, too, but all she said was, "It's been a long time, hasn't it, Martin?"

It didn't seem long. . . .

They had been roommates at college. Martin Wood and Stewart Conway. In New York, after graduation, Martin went to work with a large manufacturing concern and Stewart took a job as a car salesman. They leased an apartment in Jackson Heights and bought an assortment of furniture that would have given an interior decorator fits.

Life was extremely pleasant. Women were extra-curricular; Stewart knew a lot of them—blondes, mostly, light-headed in more ways than one—but they were occasional playthings, not to be taken seriously.

That was before Ann and Janet Ryder moved into the apartment across the courtyard and complicated things. Stewart studied them critically from the living-room window for some time before he asked, "Do these old eyes deceive me or are they good looking?"

"You can't tell from here, Stew."

"No, but you can from there. Stop sitting like a vegetable and let's go." They were all good friends in no time. Stewart had a stream-lined approach that breezed past formalities.

It was not hard to tell that Ann and Janet were sisters. They looked somewhat alike and both were pretty. But for Martin there was never any one but Janet from the first. She had blue-violet eyes, and it took just one smiling glance from them to seal the doom of the house of Conway and Wood. Janet was in Martin's heart and she never left it.

The trouble was that Stewart seemed to feel the same way. That made Martin's chances look pretty hopeless. Stewart had to fight himself off. They tried to read highly improbable messages of their own device into his engaging gray eyes, his hair was just unruly enough to make their fingers itch to fool with it and his grin was pleasant to remember. He and Janet were volleying wisecracks before they had known each other five minutes.

Ann was quieter. She had a better sense of clothes and better taste. Janet invariably had to borrow from Ann; yet it was Janet who always stood out in a crowd. Martin never told Stewart that he loved Janet, but Stewart mentioned how he felt, but there was a growing tension between them. The old camaraderie was gone.

One day when Stewart was out of town Martin called Janet and made a date for that evening. Janet wore red. It deepened the blue-violet of her eyes to an intensity that left Martin breathless and a little shy, but it put new courage into his heart, too. He almost took her in his arms when he said good night. He felt a quiet, positive certainty that her love was his for the taking.

The next day Channing, vice-president of the export division, called him in. "You want to go to Rio as assistant manager? You'll have to sail Friday. . . ."

Before he was fairly out of Channing's office, Martin knew he was going to ask Janet to marry him and go with him to Rio. It was dark when he got home. From the living room he looked at the lighted apartment across the court. A girl in red was being held very close in Stewart's arms. There was no need to look again. . . .

Martin stumbled out, sick and bewildered. Why hadn't he known it was foolish to think. . . .

Stewart found the note after Martin had said: "Dear Stew—I'm off for Rio. Best wishes for happiness to both of you. Please don't write—I want to forget. "Martin".

Janet said now, "Oh, here's my bus. It's been—good to see you, Martin. Good-bye."

Martin walked on, watching the bus. He could see Janet on its top deck—a bright, brave little figure in red. The bus stopped at the next corner and Janet stepped off. "I-I just thought I'd rather walk," she said.

Martin drew a dime out of his pocket and handed it to her. Janet blushed. "Broke as usual," she confessed. "I forgot—I spent my last cent on this dress. I love red. You see, I haven't changed, Martin. Only now I have to buy all my things instead of borrowing Ann's."

A desperate hope gripped Martin. He said, "Do you remember the red dress you wore that night, Janet?" Janet smiled. "Ann had just bought that dress. I borrowed it, and was Ann mad! She was planning to wear it the next night."

As the taxicab driver who deposited Martin and Janet at the house where Stewart and Ann lived summed it up: "This guy thinks this dame marries his pal and all the time it's her sister his pal marries, see? But everything is O.K. now."

A Bird Lover

The Passing of Jack Miner Is A Sad Loss To Canada

Nature lovers and admirers of a delightful and kindly character will mourn the death of Jack Miner of Kingsville. Birds were his particular friends; he was their trusted host. Annually thousands of these aerial travellers stopped at his sanctuary for rest and refreshment. The Government, in 1916, set aside a large area about Jack Miner's home as a protected spot for migratory birds. His Christian character was evident in his "banding" with Scriptural verses some 32,000 birds that dropped in on him at his home.

While birds were his hobby, Jack Miner was a nature lover in the larger sense. He loved all wild things that move about; he loved the forest and loved all country scenes. He had a passion for flowers which was hereditary. Among the Miner family's possessions when they came from Ohio to Canada was a barrel of flower bulbs and shrubs, the cherished property of his mother, while young Jack's treasure was a cottontail rabbit.

This delightful character did not seek fame, but fame sought him out. Without direct association with public life, he was among the best known men in North America, and was honored by some 20 societies. He could wear many decorations bestowed upon him in recognition of his work as a naturalist.

Why did so many people scattered throughout the continent honor Jack Miner? Because of his lovable disposition, his love of wild things, and his familiarity with Nature's secrets. His life was humble and serene, but he was happy and hosts of kindred souls were made happy also by his activities and the stories of his experiences so close to Nature. Edgar A. Guest expressed the thought of Jack Miner's innumerable friends when he wrote:

From pole to pole the wildfowl have spread Jack Miner's fame;
The youngest goose in Canada by now has learned his name.
And so to old Jack Miner this simple thought I pen:
He's better known in bird life than in the haunts of men.

Know Our Navy Minister

German's Give Most Publicity In Press To Angus Macdonald

If further proof were needed that the magnificent achievements of the Royal Canadian Navy have earned international recognition, it may be found in an interesting letter from an R.C.A.F. officer now a prisoner of war in Germany, excerpts from which were published in this newspaper. Lt. Lt. Kingsley Brown writes that the German press shows a keen interest in Canadian naval affairs, and that Hon. Angus Macdonald receives more publicity in Germany than any other Canadian. Mr. Macdonald is pictured by a Berlin newspaper as working with quiet confidence and determination toward his goal.

Regardless of its source, the picture is a true one, as most Canadians are well aware. The only detail lacking is the fact that Mr. Macdonald now believes his goal is practically reached, and his job finished. However, that detail does not detract from the picture as a whole; Canada's Navy Minister needed great powers of confidence and determination, to say nothing of ability, in order to reach that goal—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Doing Splendid Work

Canadian Red Cross Still Sending Food To War Prisoners

Since the commencement of packing in 1940, the plants of the Canadian Red Cross have packed 12,183,202 food parcels for British and Allied prisoners of war in enemy hands. Harold Leather, chairman of the Society's Prisoners of War Parcel Committee, told the Canadian Red Cross Central Council at a meeting in Toronto.

"From January 1st, 1944, to September 30th, the six plants located in Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal, Windsor, London and Winnipeg, have packed 4,156,916 in the nine months' period," he said. "Since the opening in 1940 this work has involved the expenditure of $25,000,000."

During the nine months of packing this year, he said that all plants had packed to capacity.

"During the heat of the summer the voluntary workers have turned out wonderfully well, and I feel that it is a great achievement of the women's organizations of Canada to have done such a splendid job," he declared.

The number of Canadians in all services and civilians in enemy hands is 8,150, according to a report made by Mrs. Jackson Cook, acting director of the Canadian Red Cross Enquiry Bureau in Ottawa.

"The Bureau has forwarded to the next of kin, in Canada only, of wounded soldiers, 6,000 'Red Cross Messages' for the period from August 31st to September 30th, with a higher number expected for October," she said. "These messages are sent one cent postage rate, and from letters on file are being received by the addressees with gratitude and as evidence of Red Cross service."

Barbed Wire

Canadian Firm Has Supplied Vast Quantities For Troops

Anyone who has ever tried to climb over barbed wire has a fairly intimate acquaintance with this type of fence. Soldiers know barbed wire even better, first in basic training, later on the battlefield. Yet although it is a familiar sight to almost all Canadians, barbed wire had never been made on this continent in the form required by the armed forces.

This type is known as "concertina fencing," and as the name suggests it comes in long springy coils. A Canadian wire manufacturer undertook the task of supplying huge quantities of this "concertina fencing" to the armed services. The experiment was so successful that the armed forces have now only the requirements of Canada's armed forces and of Great Britain, but has been able to export some 40,000 coils to the United States.

Sugar For Bees

New Form Of Sugar Permit Has Been Issued

A new form of the beekeeper's sugar purchase permit has been issued by the Sugar Administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, but procedure for obtaining supplies remains unchanged. A beekeeper who requires sugar to feed his bees must register with the Board, but, once registered, he need not register again. To obtain sugar he must forward to the Provincial Apiarist for his province a statement giving his name and address, the number of colonies of bees, the period during which he expects to use the sugar, and the minimum quantity of sugar required.

The Provincial Apiarist then issues a sugar purchase permit, giving the beekeeper authority to buy not more than a specified quantity of sugar. On receipt of this authorization, the beekeeper completes another section of the permit and turns it over to his supplier.

Intricate Work Of Making Optical Glass For War Purposes

Before the war, most of the world's optical glass was produced in England, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Germany.

Today, the highly ground and polished glass used for telescopes, range finders and other high precision fire control instruments, is made in Canada.

The process for making optical glass is an intricate one. It requires the melting of glass in clay pots. This process takes some time and then the glass must be left to cool. When a pot of glass is finally cooled, it cracks irregularly into various shaped and sized pieces. These pieces form the first steps along the line towards telescope, periscope and other optical pieces.

The job of the optical instrument is so important one. Whether the battle is in the air, on the sea, or over the land, they are the gauge of distance and direction.

Color Blending

Care Should Be Taken In Mixing Your Own Paint Colors

Certain paint colors, depending on materials from far-flung parts of the world, are increasingly hard to get because of the difficulties in procuring foreign chemicals, paint dealers say, but the smart householder can turn the shortage to his advantage by mixing other colors to produce original effects.

Only one caution is needed—if you are blending your own colors, be sure you know exactly how much surface you plan to cover with the new color and make sufficient to do the job the first time. You'll never match it exactly on a second try. Similarly, if you have to stop, be sure to stop at a corner or at the end of a wall, not in the middle of a flat area.

Greens and yellows in particular are said to be in short supply in most stores. The paint industry has done a remarkable job in developing wartime substitutes for many of their former imports, but there are some things which just can't be duplicated. Some of the dyes used in certain paints are among the things which must wait for a restoration of world commerce.

The General Merchant of Canada points out in an article directed particularly at paint dealers, that much can be done to meet the shortage of certain colors by showing customers how to blend two or more of the available colors to get many beautiful pastel shades.

"Color blending is being recommended by a number of manufacturers to help the dealer greatly increase the color range available to either experienced or amateur painters," says the publication. "Both types of painters are interested in blending paints and securing unusual shades for both interior and exterior use."

BROWN BETTY WITH CHEESE

3 to 4 tablespoons melted butter
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
6 medium apples (tart)
3/4 cup corn syrup
3/4 cup sugar
1-16 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon or nutmeg (or both)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 cups grated cheese
1/2 to 1/4 cup water (depending on variety of apples)

Trim, core and slice apples and bread crumbs together. Place about one-half cup in the bottom of a 1 1/2-quart greased casserole and cover with half of the apples (pared, cored and sliced), and half of the combined corn syrup, sugar, salt, cinnamon or nutmeg, lemon juice, cheese and water. Now put another layer of buttered crumbs over this (about 1/4 cupful) and top again with a layer of sliced apples, then a layer of the combined mixture. Top all with the remaining buttered crumbs. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350-375 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes, then remove cover and bake until apples are tender (45 minutes or longer). Serve warm or chilled, with plain white milk or cream.

Refreshments for unexpected guests are really no problem at all if there are crackers on the pantry shelf. A special treat that hits the spot on winter evenings is hot chocolate served with toasted crackers and cheese. Only a thin slice of cheese is necessary to produce the desired flavor, and a topping of chopped olives is doubly tempting.

BUILT TO LAST

Yes, British aircraft are good aircraft, probably the best to be found anywhere. A de Havilland transport plane built in Britain in 1934 has now flown 1,500,000 miles and it is still in operation in the South Pacific.
